

Potential Questions, Nonfiction Perspective

1. You write a lot to military spouses. Why did you choose this audience? What are some of your favorite things about military spouses?
2. Your husband retired in 2008 with some health problems that are related to his service. Why do you stay connected to the active duty community?
3. Active duty members tend to miss a lot of important holidays and celebrations. What is your advice for the spouse about to celebrate another birthday or anniversary alone?
4. You've raised three kids, homeschooled, stay active in other activities, write books—how do you do it all?
5. You tend to keep things pretty simple in your writing, using the occasional Bible verse or story, but not diving too deep. Is this intentional? Why?